Comments: Vermont needs this project to happen!!! For some reason this state doesn't see timber harvesting as a renewable resource. There are vast amounts of timber in the central part of the state that if managed correctly, would be viable for many many years!!! I really don't understand why people are so against it? When managed correctly, it could potentially generate income and possibly lower the tax burden on an already overly taxed state. It would also produce better habitat for local animals to thrive in. They need this type of logging activity to help promote new growth and to create food and cover. I would strongly encourage this project. I think you'll find many Vermonters would be in support of this as well. I hear a lot of folks ask why Vermont doesn't harvest more timber. It only makes sense to do so!!!! Please, Please, Please make this happen!!!!

Thank you for your time!!!
