

Data Submitted (UTC 11): 3/11/2023 4:54:48 PM

First name: Oliver

Last name: Brody

Organization:

Title:

Comments: I think it's important for the planet, for this country, for this state (Vermont) that we leave as much forest land in its natural state. Forests have been managing themselves for millions of years. They do best when they're left alone. Before 1700 70% of Vermont was forested. By 1900 all but 10% of Vermont had been forested. Now we're back o 78% forested. Let's give the forest a chance to do the job it was meant to do - sequestration and storage. Don't log Telephone Gap.