Comments: I OPPOSE changing the current approved route of the historic trail.

First, the historic trail route is best for enjoyment of future users of the completed trail and already has had significant work done on the existing route. Any route will have issues to deal with but a historic native American (and Canadian) should be given preference.

Second, the suggested alternative route is no desirable to users who want the wilderness or remote experience. travelling down highways is not why other historic trails have had such success with users. Objections such as Grizley bears or logging ring hollow as they are made by individuals or groups that seek to stop any projects for personal or financial gain.
