Comments: Hello,

I'm writing in to let you know I fully support this training area being developed in the Rampart Range trail area. As a recreational motorbike user, I see a huge benefit in something like this:

- 1) The Rampart Range community desires varied riding opportunities catering to different skill levels including intermediate, advanced, and true beginner, to enable them to learn to handle their motorcycles in a way that prepares them for trail riding challenges.
- 2) Rampart Range attracts visitors who are eager to improve their skills through dedicated education and training facilities. Unfortunately, there is a lack of such facilities catering to the needs of both inexperienced and experienced motorized users.
- 3) Riders who have the ability to navigate difficult terrain, such as riding over logs or tackling other obstacles, are more likely to remain on the trail when faced with these difficulties.
- 4) With an influx of new riders entering the sport, there is a growing demand for additional challenges outside of the current trails.
