Comments: Although the idea is to make the ski trail more user friendly, I feel this is an over-reach to the eco-system. Approximately 4 million visit the Park annually. All this type of development will do is to increase the pressure on the eco-system. I realize that many of the park denizens are dormant or have left the area, there is still a general amount of pressure to the area simple due to the foot print from human activity to those remaining. I am against any further development of the Rendez-vous ski system. The trails are already convenient and world class.
