Comments: "Better not Bigger" again, is moving a working ski lift, just to build another hiking trail really better for our forest environment? Large construction equipment . Your going to have construction disturb the earth, knock down trees, possibly increase erosion, expose more ground, increased loss of habitat, and increase sources of pollution?? Large construction equipment are going to introduce the possibility of pollution sources. The EA states construction will utilize current road systems to gain access to proposed construction sites. The proposed construction sites are in undeveloped areas so, the claim of no impact outside of the current road system is false. I believe an EIS is needed to verify the impacts of additional routes required to complete these proposed projects. I understand these ski lifts are nearing the end of their operational life, but please maintain the same footprint!
