

Data Submitted (UTC 11): 4/26/2023 2:18:20 PM

First name: Anon

Last name: Anon

Organization:

Title:

Comments: Groundwater is a finite resource and west river will have to utilize Missouri River water to support population growth. Also, the mineral withdrawal area follows the watershed boundary, so that supports that only surface water quality is important? Groundwater does not adhere to watershed boundaries. Rather a source water protection study would better define areas more suitable for protection vs an arbitrary subwatershed boundary.