Comments: As an outside enthusiast and a avid mountain biker, projects like these are very alarming to me. I feel as if the hills are shrinking in size and there are fewer and fewer areas that are not being developed in some way. It is becoming so hard to get away from traffic, motorized trails, and man made obstructions. I worry of the effects drilling in natural habits could lead to established habitat, trails and wild life. I believe we should do more to protect what we have instead of pursuing endeavors that risk our natural beauty and resources. Once something is disturbed it can be reclaimed but not the same.
