Comments: All, I'm an avid snowmobiler that has invest many hours and money in my hobby. My friends and I travel to multiple states during the season to snowmobile.

The Great burn was an area most of us cut our teeth on as young men. It would be a great loss to lose this awesome area.

I have back packed through the Bob Marshall Wilderness along the Chinese Wall and other places and have seen first hand the impact of many horses on the trail and the rain ruts that follow. The designated camp sites over used and shut down to camping to allow the plant life to come back.

When the snow melts, the tracks go away from the areas responsible snowmobilers have visited.

Respectfully, Dave.
