Comments: My past experience with mining companies is not a good one. Whether it was for exploration or full blown mining operation, they have lied, misdirected and cheated any way they can to line their pockets with gold. Exploration is just the first step to what will be decimation of the forest. Yes, they will cite jobs and positive economic activity for the area until something happens to cause their corporation to pull out of the area. Their bond is woefully underfunded. There is no personal responsibility. Only corporate LIMITED liability. This is a recipe for another disaster. Please do NOT issue any permits for this exploration.
