Comments: I'm very concerned about the gold mining's effect on the water...and the fish, the wildlife, the resident's health, home values. Also, this will affect tourism, not to mention the local restaurant business.

The Black Hills are sacred. It's what Crazy Horse and Chief Sitting Bull gave their lives for. Can't we just keep it sacred? Must it all be devoured and destroyed like the rest of the country? And why? So a very few can make a buck and then move on the next place to destroy? Please take a stand and let the people of the Black Hills be an example to the rest of the world of making a difference, of valuing what is sacred and good and pure for the health of all!
