Comments: Personally, I think this is a terrible plan to allow in the Black Hills. I don't see any positive impact for the Black Hills area coming out of this and also, where would it end? Besides the beginning and obvious impact of the wildlife and the environment, which is a big concern, what about the future and the what if's. What if they don't find anything after these first 25 locations. Who's to say they won't want to do another 25 different locations, or 50 and so on until they find something. What if they do find a mineral or ore and it's going to be mined. How big of an impact is that going to have? We have millions of people a year come to the Black Hills to enjoy the beauty of it and the area. What happens if a part or a lot of it is gone or being mined. This plan seems to hurt the area with no positive outcome for the Black Hills and the people.
