Comments: Please stop, sit down, close your eyes, breath. Be grateful for each breath. The people are here to remind you that this is unhealthy for us, our planet, our literal mother which is the reason we have the privilege to exist.

Because you cannot see the consequences in real time you remain disconnected from them. Please consider what the people have to say, it is truth coming from a much deeper and connected place from the source. Before you could begin to understand I encourage you to look within your own self and how you care for your body. It seems impossible to expect someone to care about these major issues when they may not even care for the own body in that way. So I guess my prayer is that the power in power will wake up to their own power and purpose for good-which I believe is in us all.
