Comments: This is such a terrible idea. Why would you take away something that many generations have enjoyed. People use snowmobiles to run trap lines as well as just for fun. For some this is a way they make a living or get around in the winter when roads are too bad for cars to travel. This is such a terrible idea. It's so restrictive and just plain unnecessary to take away a hobby that many Montanans enjoy each and every year. This sounds like something California would do. And God forbid Montana turns into the next California. Just leave people be too enjoy the beauty of nature and the forest in a way that you can only experience with snowmobiles
