Comments: I for one am sick and tired of the forest service shutting down OUR forest. Locking gates for the grizzly bears. Introducing an invasive species (the gray wolf) which has turned the elk hunting in northwestern Montana in to shambles. Used to be a premier hunting destination for elk, not now.
Now it's the bear denning areas coupled with wolverines areas and I believe it's the lynx too. Seems the forest service is more concerned about predators than people putting quality meat in there freezers. So in short I am 100% against losing one more acre of land for any reason. As far as I'm concerned you can take down most of these gates that lock us out of OUR forest.
