Comments: It seems the public use of the public land in question has come down to the elimination of human use in favor of Elk Habitat Effectivness and Recommended Wilderness. Recreation is no longer a consideration from people like myself that have actually visited these areas in Winter on a snowmobile. At one of the many prior meetings I asked Probert if she had visited any of this land Summer or Winter and she proudly said "Nope"! Her appointment to this politcal position assured the outcome before it ever started. There was treamendous support from local people for leaving it open for recreation, but obviously we were ignored! All the pro wilderness people that will never lay eyes on this land will give you the reason to permanently close it to those of us that actually use it. Since I have become disabled over the years there most certainly no way I could ever visit again. I have become disgusted with all government agencies.
