Comments: Dear Forest Service:

I strongly oppose the grazing of domestic sheep (and cattle) in the High Uinta Wilderness, or any other wilderness for that matter. Wilderness Areas were established to be free from significant human influence, and domestic livestock production of any kind is a significant deleterious human influence. I personally have avoided visiting the high Uintas for this very reason -- because I know how upset I would be if I did go up there and witness livestock industry environmental damage first-hand. Please permanently terminate livestock grazing in the High Uinta Wilderness.
