Comments: The only RATIONAL solution to maintaining the big horn in their native habitat is NOT to kill their predators, but to eliminate the domestic sheep from the big horn's environment. But obviously the moneyed interests don't see it that way; they have taken over the big horn's grazing areas, because it's FREE to them, but at an outrageous cost to the environment AND the taxpayers, namely US. So- tell US, do the big money sheep ranchers get to destroy the environment once again, including the wild species that are indigenous to the mountains, or is a RATIONAL, environmentally sound solution going to take place?
