

Data Submitted (UTC 11): 8/22/2023 5:03:50 PM

First name: Elizabeth

Last name: Butler

Organization:

Title:

Comments: Grazing of sheep has absolutely no place in a public-owned wilderness area ever. Sheep are destructive to the eco system, and also leads to efforts to eliminate predators that might attach sheep. Predators are essential to the ecological balance and prevent overruns by deer and other grazers. Public wilderness should never be sold for private profit, and all permits for grazing should be retired as soon as feasible. The permit fees do NOT compensate current and future generations for the destruction of publicly owned wilderness.