Comments: It's time to give wild lands back to the wild creatures that belong there. How much damage are humans allowed to inflict on wild ecosystems before it is irreversible? We share the planet with other living beings. We need a new approach to this planet that takes these other living beings into account. Domestic sheep don't belong where wild mountain sheep live. Let the natural world prevail until we humans learn how to live without harm. Ask the indigenous people, who have deep connections with the lands. They'll tell you what needs to be done.
