Comments: The High Uintas Wilderness should be dedicated to its native wildlife. Livestock grazing should be limited so the wildlife which belongs there does not have to compete for food or space, or have diseases spread. In addition, domestic grazing compromises the High Uintas watersheds, fouls the lakes/streams, and severely degrades the experience of visitors seeking a Wilderness experience.

Killing native predators to protect sheep or cows should be prohibited if domestic livestock grazing is allowed to continue. The SDEIS fails to disclose how many native predators-such as black bears, mountain lions, or coyotes-are killed in the High Uintas Wilderness to protect domestic sheep. The SDEIS also fails to disclose the effects continued sheep grazing has on the potential for recovering native wildlife such as wolves and grizzly bears.

Please support the no grazing option, as it is best for the wildlife, watersheds, recreation, and the Wilderness.
