Comments: I support the no grazing option as it is best for the wildlife, watersheds, recreation, and the Wilderness. The High Uintas Wilderness should be dedicated to its native wildlife. Domestic sheep grazing is incompatible with recovering native bighorn sheep population. If domestic sheep grazing remains in the High Uintas, the native bighorn sheep are likely doomed. Additionally, grazing by domestic sheep and cows compromises the High Uintas watersheds and fouls the lakes and streams.

To the extent livestock grazing is allowed, it should be limited so as to not compete with wildlife for food or space or to spread disease to native species. At the very least, the Forest Service should close any sheep grazing allotment if the permit is waived back to the Forest Service.
