Comments: First, the 2005 plan must be updated to 2023 practices! We live in the shadow of Mt. Chocorua and have completed two timber sales in the past 30 years. The technology and forestry practices have changed drastically during that time. Second, while reducing fuel in the forest is important, extreme care must be exercised to avoid another Las Vegas NM or Lahaina, HI. We have been swinging between drought and downpour. Will any burns take these fluctuation into account? Lastly, is this the best place to do logging, impacting some of the most heavily used hiking trails in NH? I think not...
