Comments: It is alarming that such a large scale project is formulated on a plan from 2005, with climate change not taken into account. Plans should be reassessed using current knowledge on climate change and its impact, and also the damage it will do to the ecology and the knock-on effects this will have on the environment.

Changes to the ecosystem all feed into climate change and can have adverse effect.

Tourism is a major source of income for the area - businesses are already struggling in the current economy following the covid pandemic. The large scale of the plan will have a major impact on tourism. There should be an up-to-date assessment on how the plans will affect the local economy and whether this can be mitigated by altering the plans.
