Comments: The recent floods in Vermont and climate events around the world are a testament to the fact that things will only get worse unless we all act, now. This is a critical time in the fight against climate change and we all have to do all we possibly can to reduce our carbon footprint. These forests are essential to offsetting carbon and we need them now more than ever. The Forest service is not accounting for impact of what it would mean to lose the benefits of the biodiversity of these woods which will not be regrown in time to offset the carbon we so desperately need to reduce in our atmosphere.
