Comments: I am in favor of Monarch so area expanding the available terrain but I feel there is other terrain that would be better suited. The so called "No Name" basin is southwest facing and I anticipate this will create difficulties in retaining quality snow.

Since they have the money and also own the crest tram I think a lift from Fooses Creek or S. Arkansas basins would be much better terrain and allows potential expansion to terrain that is less wind and sun affected. This also has more potential terrain in the more distant future where No Name basin is fairly limited.

It's their business so they have better information but the terrain elsewhere I think would be better to expand into given my experience backcountry skiing in the area for the last decade or so.
