Comments: Hi Bret

I would like to offer positive comments towards the proposed special use permit for Adjacent Productions Outlast season 2. Adjacent Productions has been a good customer of Petersburg Flying Service for a few years now. Now Adjacent Productions is chartering my vessel the Chester B to be moored on location and serve as a safety vessel for the cast and crew. This production is bringing revenue to the community and people of Petersburg during a slow time of the year. 2023 has been slower than normal for most residents of Petersburg and so additional revenue is much needed and welcomed. From boat transport of cast and crew to catering services for food and all of the other essential services required for this production, this show will provide a boost to our local economy if permitting is allowed.

I have heard about a couple of negative comments regarding this location displacing resident hunters from deer or moose hunting. I feel that with the production being located inside Little Duncan bay that if there are any resident hunters displaced there are other nearby areas that offer hunting opportunities with better access actually than Little Duncan has. Little Duncan is very shallow and historically it has not been a popular area because of it's difficult access. Also, with the relatively short duration of the show being conducted from Oct 4- November 11 any displaced deer hunters will still be able to access the area after the conclusion of filming because the deer season in that area closes November 30.

In summary, it is my opinion that the good that will come from the production of this show will benefit the community in many ways. This greater good outweighs the potential displacement of a hunter or two who will still have the opportunity to hunt nearby or later on.

Thank you for the opportunity to comment.
