Comments: Hi Mr. Uppencamp,

I understand that the Forest Service is taking comments on a reality survivalist show that is planning on filming from Kah Sheets to Breiland Slough the beginning of October thru sometime in November. I hear that there are 40-50 people involved in the production.

I'm concerned that this production could significantly interfere with locals' subsistence and recreation activities in that area during that time period. That's a busy period for deer hunting, waterfowl hunting, and I believe moose hunting in that area. A production of that scale could significantly interfere with game activity and effectively restrict access for local hunters (no ones going to want to share their favorite hunting spot with a production crew). That's an important area for Petersburg hunters because of its relative ease of access. I urge you to deny, relocate, or at least significantly restrict permitting for that production.

Thanks for you time and consideration,

Kyle Knight
