Comments: To purposely destroy acres and acres of forest in the manner described is wholly outdated. To use a plan proposed dating from 2005 is in my opinion an act of negligence. No one should be able to do something as rash as this, on such a grand scale, without a review system taking into account current knowledge. The proposed plan is very vague in many areas and before anything of this magnitude begins, explicit planning should be in place. Mass quantities of lumber being milled from this project will never be a good reason for deforestation.

The forest is its own ecosystem whose economy should not be destroyed.

Thank you
