Comments: I'm not well enough informed to have a strong opinion one way or the other on this issue.

My biggest concern is the shared use of trails with dogs and walkers with the increased frequency and increased speeds associated with e-bikes.

If you have a clear idea how other stakeholders will be negatively impacted if this policy is implemented then I would expect a strong mitigation plan in effect.

Comparing this impact with the impact on those who are "underserved" without this policy in place feels important and something I'm not informed enough to do.

My very superficial understanding of this issue indicates that privileged individuals would benefit more than underprivileged individuals by this policy. That the e-bike community skews towards wealthier individuals those individuals that are walking.

All this is to say I probably don't endorse a broad shift in e-bike usage in the Teton Pass region.
