Comments: i object to the finding from this agency, usda is an anti environmental agency focused on farming and other use of the national sites. it is a moneymaking agency that does not protect or preserve. it doesn't even use the word protectio and preservation ever but instead uses the word "conservation" which means we will get you later to destroy you.

ryan nehl and nels.rasmussen@usda.gov, seem to have their names nowhere on this ugly destructive project. prescribed fire is damaging as wildfire, it pollutes the air and kills people with air pollution of smaller than 2.5mm.

government of the people by the people for other people. the people in this agency have completely lost contact with the real people and citizens of the USA. they consort only with paid lobbyists with lots of money who they only design to see. if you are not a rich person, you never get an in person hearing with the agency personnel. only rich people are heard by agencies.

democracy is lost when you let govt officials consort only with paid lobbyists with lots of money to advance their viewpoints do they take you out to lunch? give you presents or trips?

failure to honor USA citizenry. agency in fact demeans US citizens who work and are not full time lobbyists for their national lands. agency makes our voices meaningless and invalid. we don't get paid for this for our time and try to fit it in with working full time, family time, shopping and all the other chores demanded of USA citizens. so anybody who writes in should be counted as represent 10,000 other citizens at least, if not more. it takes a lot of our lives to get involved to try to save our national lands. a lot. paid for it is an entirely different story, easy come.

all of that needs to count somewhere.
