Comments: Your proposal represents a huge man-driven manipulation of wilderness that is inconsistent with the letter and spirit of the 1964 Wilderness Act. From a wilderness perspective, it is far better to allow lightning-caused fire to play its natural role in clearing forest, as it has done for centuries, rather than to invade Wilderness to cut down what men consider "undesirable" trees and burn forests based on human wishes and desires. This is a world that is already inhabited by hundreds of species, both flora & fauna, and not ours to do with what we want. We have already done that with 90% of the country, these are the few special places that are still natural. Let them remain so.
