Comments: Prescribed fire is a great management technique to use before an unmanaged fire. It can do a lot to mitigate catastrophic fires, as Native people have known forever.

Now that the damage has been done, however, there is lots to learn about how nature proceeds with restoration, and nature knows a lot more than we do. It might be preferable to let nature take its course and take good notes on what that course is. Also maybe listen to Native voices before more harm is done.
