Comments: The Forest Service should exclude all of the designated Wildernesses from its proposed burning plans for the Sequoia and Sierra National Forests in order to comply with the Wilderness Act.

The agency should instead allow natural, lightning-caused fire to play its ecological role in Wilderness on the Sequoia and Sierra National Forests.

Modern humans have proven repeatedly that we are inept at land management. Please stop interfering and let the living world's intelligence recover naturally from the unwise human assaults of the last 200+ years.
