Comments: Hands off our Wilderness Areas!

The spirit of the Wilderness Act is to let our wilderness areas remain untouched and un-altered by human hands. They should be allowed to just BE and exist and evolve on their own. Intentionally burning them should not be up for discussion. Natural fires should be permitted to burn out on their own. Policies to stop fires from spreading out of or into wilderness areas should be set up in advance with fairly rigid guidelines about when fire containment and extinguishing will happen. Let nature and natural processes rule on their own whenever possible.
