Comments: How does this benefit the public? Who benefits from this, and is it in the best interest of most people who use public land?

Once again we, the public, are being squeezed out by an outfitting industry fueled by insatiable greed and total lack of conservation. Is the money received by the forest service worth the pressure on resources and the conflicts certain to arise between outfitters and public hunters and fishermen under this proposal?

Wake up to the fact that overcrowding is already happening on this forest, and encouraging this increase of outfitting on BD forest is neither necessary or desired by the public, who incidentally, sign your checks.
