

Data Submitted (UTC 11): 11/23/2023 2:44:29 AM

First name: Zachary

Last name: Walton

Organization:

Title:

Comments: Climbing is a very large part of national parks, and this proposal could kill rock climbing as a sport as many of the best places for climbing are in national parks, especially big wall climbing as there are not many other locations that have that. Therefore, bolts for climbing should not be further restricted as they have little physical impact on the environment compared to other things in parks like roads.