Comments: To whom it may concern,

We the public strongly object to this proposal. Environment impact is a serious cause for concern and this proposal would actually create much more impact than reduce said impact. This is a dangerous proposal putting people's lives at risk and would result in accidents and rescue mission with high levels of impact. The rock climbing community is one of the most environmentally mindful communities among outdoor enthusiasts. Our goal should be to encourage more climbing in order to teach climbing principals to others in order to create a world of lower human impact. Please focus your strength on proposals that will have real results on the environment instead of alienating those that believe in protecting the environment.
