Comments: I do not want any type of gun shooting in National Parks. Owning a gun is a personal decision that comes with a litany of personal responsibilities. A few examples of those responsibilities are when, where, and how to use your gun. If this personal decision becomes tough or not so enjoyable because there aren't many places the gun owner personally owns that can accommodate gun use. Bummer! National Parks are not the place for any type of gun use. No hunting. No practicing. No killing.
