Comments: Hello, and thanks for letting me comment concerning rock climbing in wilderness areas.

I would like to state that I am against any attached bolts or rock climbing equipment left in wilderness areas. I travel into wilderness areas to enjoy the natural surroundings, nature, and solitude. Being able to see man made items in wilderness areas spoils the meaning of the wilderness experience for me.

By allowing this to occur, it sets a bad precedent that will open up wilderness areas to other special interest groups that are not compatible with the original wilderness act

Thank you for your consideration,

Dan Rosenthal
