Comments: You gotta be kidding me. Really? A ban on fixed anchors for climbing in Nation Forest Lands? And you're going to remove what's already there? Really? Who came up with this grand idea? How you going to enforce it and who's dealing with the lawsuits sure to come, when things go badly for someone related to this grand idea? I really think it's bad idea. How do you decide what's worthy use of the forest? Some fixed anchors up on a cliff are not OK but all the "other installments" around trailheads, etc., etc. are OK? Don't you think you all have some better fish to fry?
