Comments: Climbing has been a huge and amazing part of my life. It has been a gateway to the outdoors, causing me to explore and come to love our wild places. It has taught me appreciation for rock, as I get up close and appreciate its curves, cracks, and all the lichens, plants, bugs, and animals that make a home on its surfaces and crevices. I cherish these places and am drawn to protect them so that future generations can have the same experiences. Fixed anchors have been completely indispensable in this process I've gone through. They've allowed me to access these wild places and grow my appreciation for them. I humbly ask you to please reconsider your proposal. I value both existing anchors as well as future ones to allow continued exploration. Thank you.
