Comments: These policies are surface level and do not address the issues at hand. These policies are also going to erase very important history. This is not just a matter of words on a paper. It's history, it's safety, and it's going to lead to a much bigger problem. The agency cannot provide for the public or the American people by using antiquated tactics to solve problems. Work with the people to come up with a real solution and stop using the "easy" button on an issue that the agency obviously does not understand.
