Comments: Please don't ban bolts. Sport climbing is one of the most safest ways to climb and explore the amazing wilderness with very little impact to the rock. As an active outdoor person I understand that bolting isn't appropriate everywhere however for the vast majority of places it's not noticeable. I've spent hours looking for a bolted route because it can be so hard to tell. Climbers else tend to be a lot more protective of the environment compared to normal tourists such as hikers.
