Comments: With the goal of reducing carbon emissions to zero by 2050 and given the 20 year useful life of vehicles and 18 year useful life of gas furnaces, it is imperative to begin reducing fossil fuel extraction now in 2024, just 26 years from 2050.

But even without taking climate change into consideration, the harms from pollution that always, every time, arise from fossil fuel extraction projects lead me to sing the praises of any effort to protect our state, our country, our world from another fossil fuel extraction project. Thank you for protecting the Thompson Divide from oil and gas development.
