Comments: I am writing in regards to the fixed anchors. I strongly feel this is a bad idea. The canyoneering community will suffer if policies are put into place that are focused on rock climbing anchors. Canyoneering has very little in common with rock climbing, touching differently virtually every concept that goes into anchor building. Canyoneering is a smaller sport than rock climbing and will not get the funding or attention of it's bigger peers. Access to canyoneers will be lost as a result of this policy. Canyoneering has changed my life for the better. It is one of the most important things out there to me in the world and I would be so sad and disappointed if misguided regulation destroys something that I love so much. Please work with the community to create a proposal that does not benefit one sport to the terrible expense of others.
