

Data Submitted (UTC 11): 1/8/2024 2:03:52 AM

First name: Simon

Last name: Parkinson

Organization:

Title:

Comments: I know I live in the flatlands, but I love climbing. Fixed anchors, even in wilderness areas, are an integral part of climbing safety. Banning fixed anchors will greatly limit the ability for climbers to climb in the parks safely. It seems that innocuous climbing safety equipment is being singled out. There are permanent hiking trails and even off road vehicle areas in national parks. I don't understand how climbing safety equipment is deemed "too much."