Comments: Climbing is a big part of our National Parks and Forest history! Climbers are a user group that totally supports conservation and stewardship. The use of fixed anchors date back to the earliest recorded ascents of many of our most famous and iconic rock formations. The anchors provide safety for climbers and do not in anyway detract from the beauty of these places. Please consider working closely with the climbing communities to continue supporting the advancement of climbing in our nation's natural wonders! Thank you!
