Comments: I just went on my first elk hunter ever, in Wyoming Units 102 and 103 this year. Even after the hard winter, I managed to find elk. I think this was largely due to the heroic efforts to feed elk over the horrible winter. Given the recent winter kill, weather changes, and potential for wolf predation, I belief we need to continue winter feeding where necessary. That will not only preserve the resource, but ensure a critical mass of population that will encourage out of state hunters to travel to Wyoming.
