Comments: Fixed anchors are an essential piece of climbers' safety system. Allowing fixed anchors will do more to protect wilderness than not having them. They have been allowed and used for decades for good reason. Prohibiting fixed anchors will threaten America's rich climbing legacy and could erase some of the world's greatest climbing achievements. Climbing management policy needs to protect existing routes from removal. Restricting the establishment of new routes to existing climbing opportunities will only create confusion and is unenforceable.
